ASEAN SMART CITIES NETWORK AND THE CHALLENGES OF URBANIZATION

BACKGROUND

The ASEAN Smart Cities Network (ASCN) is one of the main deliverables of Singapore's ASEAN Chairmanship this year. ASCN is a collaborative platform where cities in ASEAN work together to achieve the common goal of smart and sustainable development. ASEAN is however not alone in harnessing the concept of smart cities to achieve sustainable development. Many other cities are also at the forefront to develop their smart city development strategies. Mainland China outnumbers other players in smart city pilots, while Hong Kong will be investing HK$700 million to push ahead with key infrastructure projects under its Smart City Blueprint. The Conclusion of the ASEAN-Hong Kong Free Trade Agreement has enhanced collaboration between ASEAN, Mainland China and Hong Kong. It is therefore opportune to explore ways to achieve synergy between ASCN and the smart city development thrusts of Mainland China and Hong Kong. (See attached)
